

Rick's Celebration of Life Service

Tuesday, 26 May 2009

I'm posting some pictures from Rick's Celebration of Life Service which took place on Saturday May 2nd, 2009 in Greenwood, IN. There are more photos from the service in the Photo Gallery if you'd like to see them (also in right menu).

Rick was cremated and at some point in the future, the family will be re-tracing Rick's walking route (in a car) and scattering some of his ashes where he began the walk, where he ended the walk, and in every state he walked through. This will also mark what I feel is a fitting conclusion to the documentary that I've been making about my Dad's walk.

The service was also captured on video and as soon as I have the tape converted to a digital form, I'll post it here for anyone who would like to watch it.
